

All
America
Rose
Selections

AARS - A non-profit association of rose growers dedicated to the introduction and promotion of exceptional roses.

- AARS evaluates new rose varieties for beauty, disease resistance, and ease of care. After undergoing a two-year trial of plant performance in official test gardens throughout the United States, the superior performers receive the designation of AARS award winners.
- Shore Acres received the designation of an All-America Rose Selections display garden in 1977 and held that designation for 35 years, until the program ended in 2013. In 2011, the All-America Rose Selections membership decided to make a major shift in the direction of the organization and to discontinue the public garden program after the 2012 growing season.
- While the AARS award is a widely accepted designation of quality for roses, most "old garden" and "heirloom" type roses have never been evaluated. So the lack of an award does not necessarily imply any lack of beauty or garden usefulness for a particular rose.
- You will find more information on growing roses in the "Shore Acres Roses" brochure or go to www.shoreacres.net – Home Page - Contact – Ask the Gardener.
